

I'm not the type to roll up my sleeves

I don't usually roll up my sleeves...

I'm always aware that the style I'm wearing right now when I'm really focused isn't really my style.

How about this...?

"We will support you in a different way..."

- ① Provision of defense systems (surveillance and defense drones, etc.)
 - ② Immediate notification of monitoring and risk prediction from a remote location to ships in transit and escort convoys
- And so on...

I think this is more helpful, but I didn't send proposals to 17 ministries for nothing...

(Note)

Normally, this would be sent by regular mail as a "proposal from the ministry," but since the timing of the visit to the US was undecided, it was intentionally made as a temporary piece.

(As an aside)

If it were me... I would definitely be persistently asking the cabinet ministers around me, "Can I go? Can I go?", and I would certainly be preparing to buy various containers at the nearby Daiso,

(There are also free transparent plastic containers in the prepared food section of supermarkets.)

and I would stay at the dinner party until no one had left...
